Statement of Reconciliation for Humanity

Hear ye, hear ye, let it be recorded eternally,

This is the Sovereign Ecclesiastical Trust’s official and everlasting Statement of Reconciliation for Humanity.

Let this serve not only as a legal declaration, but as a divine act of restoration, redemption, and eternal love.

Declaration of Reconciliation

We, as trustees and stewards of the Sovereign Ecclesiastical Trust—established under divine authority beyond temporal jurisdiction—do hereby offer and proclaim reconciliation unto all of humanity: past, present, and yet to be born.

We acknowledge the wounds inflicted by systems of power, control, and division. We acknowledge the pain caused by war, enslavement, deceit, and destruction in all forms. We extend not vengeance, but healing. Not retaliation, but restoration.

Purpose and Intent

This Statement exists to absolve and reconcile the entirety of humanity under one universal truth: that all are born sacred, equal, and free by the Creator’s breath. No deed, no misstep, no error shall forever separate a soul from divine grace and restoration.

All nations, peoples, tongues, races, and traditions are hereby included in this reconciliation without membership, fee, or oath. It is granted freely, by eternal covenant of love.

Remedy and Restoration

Where there was bondage, we declare freedom. Where there was fear, we declare peace. Where there was injustice, we declare redemption. Where there was separation, we declare unity. No earthly court, crown, or creed may overturn this divine reconciliation.

Benediction of Eternal Unity

Let this document be etched into the fabric of creation, witnessed by the heavens and earth alike. May those who read this feel the weight of eternal love and mercy upon them, and may peace arise in every heart. We do not condemn—we reconcile. We do not divide—we gather. We do not punish—we heal.

So it is spoken, so it is sealed, so it is done—forever and evermore.

In Eternal Service and Peace,

By Authority of the Sovereign Ecclesiastical Trust
